DETAILED ACTION

This office action is in response to the Request for continued Examination, filed February 06, 2009 and to the amendment filed April 01, 2009. Applicant amended claims 1-4, 7-11, 13, 14, 16, 22-28, 31-33. Claims 1-28 and 31-33 are still pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, 7-10, 11, 12, 16, 18-21, 24-26 and 31-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DoubleClick, as disclosed in DoubleClick International, 1/08/2001; (http://demo.doubleclick.com/generators/docs/designer\_version.pdf) hereinafter DoubleClick.

Regarding claim 1, DoubleClick teach combining at a server an ad input file (Flash file, FLASH banner ads, FLASH movie) with a conduit file (click tracking string, ClickTag) to automatically create a single integrated ad file having a single file extension (swf file) containing both the ad input file and the conduit file (ActionScript used to combine the clicktag together with the movie); wherein the conduit file comprises of computer code (ClickTag) for tracking data for the ad, and serving the integrated ad file from a computer to provide the ad (see pp 1-3);

Regarding claim 4, DoubleClick teaches the use of Macromedia Flash; wherein the ad is Flash ad and the files are “swf” files (see pp 1-3)

Regarding claims 7-10, DoubleClick teaches the ad including one or more actions for linking to one or more web pages and wherein the ad input file specifies one or more button actions, each having an exit code ...; the integrated ad file includes html code loading a JavaScript file, for loading the integrated ad file; tracking the ad using the code in the conduit file and tracking identifier; the html code including a variable and the conduit file includes code that determined where the ad opens in a parent window or new window based on the variable (see pp 3).

Regarding claims 11, 12 and 24-26, DoubleClick teaches identifying a first file (Flash movie file); identifying a second file (tracking string (ClickTag)); wherein the first file specifies ad content code and the second file contains ad-tracking code; electronically inserting the second file into the first file to create a file having a single file extension (swf); wherein the first file specifies ad content code and the second file contains an ad-tracking code (see pp 1-3).

Regarding claims 16, 18-21, DoubleClick teaches identifying a first file (tracking string (ClickTag1)); identifying a second file (tracking string (ClickTag2)); identifying a third file (Flash movie); identifying a first placeholder and second placeholder in the third file and electronically inserting the first and second file into the first and second placeholder respectively to create a single integrated ad file having a single file extension (swf); wherein the first file includes a tracking data; html code loading ad file (third file); third file including one or more buttons; wherein (see pp 1-3).

Regarding claims 31 and 32, DoubleClick teaches the integrated ad file includes one or more exit code referring to one or more URL variables; wherein the integrated ad file is designed to be loaded and wherein the ad is provided (see pp 2-3).

Regarding claim 33, DoubleClick teaches the ad is provided to a user computer via the Internet and combining of the files is in response to receiving a request for a Web page and serving the integrated ad file as par of the web page (see pp 2&3).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 3, 5, 6, 13, 15, 17, 22, 23, 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Doubleclick, as applied to claim 1 above, in view of Official Notice.

Regarding claims 2, 3, 13, 14, 22, 23 and 28, DoubleClick teaches each time the destination URL has to be modified (for whatever reason) the FLASH file has to be sent back to the design agency to be modified. DoubleClick also teaches by using variables to pass the click tracking string into Flash movies instead of modifying the FLASH file itself only the variable in the Rich Media Field is changed. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to know that the designer or programmers of DoubleClick would accept a new or modified information or content from the source and insert the same or different tracking information according to the goals of the campaign or the preference of the tracking server.

Regarding claims 5 and 6, DoubleClick teaches Flash Movie (swf file) but does not explicitly teach the file includes an empty movie object and inserting the conduit file in the empty movie object; wherein the empty movie clip is given a predefined name and searching for the predefined name. However official notice is taken that old and well known in the art of Macromedia Flash to create an empty movie clip using Macromedia Flash, one that contains no data or graphic content, so that external files (JPGS or SWF) can be loaded into it. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use the empty clip as a placeholder for external file such as the tracking data, if the ad is a movie clip.

Regarding claims 15, 17 and 27, DoubleClick does not explicitly teach identifying a placeholder (an empty movie clip) in the first file and electronically inserting the second file in the placeholder to create an ad file. However official notice is taken that is old and well known in the art of programming to create empty movie clip using Macromedia Flash. Macromedia Flash is used to create an empty movie clip, one that contains no data or graphic content, so that external files (JPGS or SWF) can be loaded into it. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to create an empty movie clip, in rich media, as a placeholder for external files such as the tracking data to be inserted, if the ad is a movie clip.
